

WOMEN TO VOTE IN SPRING PRIMARY, SAYS MRS. CATT

Suffrage Leader Points Out That 23 States Have Already Ratified Suffrage.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, National and International Suffrage President, just back from a Western tour for the ratification of the Federal Suffrage Amendment, announces that women of this country will vote in the spring primaries of 1920 and that next April, when the International Suffrage Alliance assembly in Madrid, Spain, after a lapse of seven years, the name of the United States will go upon the record as an enfranchised Nation.

Mrs. Catt reported that twenty-three States have already ratified, several others have called special sessions, and that the Suffrage Amendment will hold the palm for quick ratification in this country. In six months time nearly two-thirds of the necessary thirty-six States have lined up for Suffrage.

She's in your town but not in your set

You know her—but the society editor knows her better. Her name may not be Mrs. J.
Huntington Wells—but it's the same woman.

Her house is in your town, too—different architecture, perhaps—but it cost as much as the most pretentious place in the city.

In fact, she has everything money can buy—everything she wants—almost. All but social position.

And that's where Miss Anne Blythe comes in. Anne Blythe (in your town she has another name) is society editor of the "Daily Clarion."

Despite money, energy, and unlimited endeavor, Mrs. J. Huntington Wells had never been mentioned in the Clarion in the same paragraph with the Hick-Smiths, Joneses and Wilberforces—the unattainable few.

How she made a fool of herself in order to get her name established with the socially elect, makes a story such as only the society editor can tell—because she is the only one who really knows.

And how Anne Blythe successfully turned the trick for Mrs. J. Huntington Wells is as fascinating a story as you ever read—so read
"Publicity" by Grace Torrey, in the January Companion.

The thinking world is sitting up and taking notice
